

Mark Hammerschlag

Director - Business Advisory

Professional background:

An extensive client base throughout his career has afforded Mark in-depth experience. These include not-for-profit organisations, high-net-worth families and both medium to large family businesses that span a range of industries, including property development, manufacturing, distribution, retailing and hospitality. His unique understanding and insight into family business is supported by a demonstrated ability in managing family relationships as a result of generational change and succession issues. This includes the admission or separation of shareholders and/or partners.

Mark also specialises in small business, high-net-worth individuals, medical practitioners and specialists and self-managed superannuation funds.

Big-picture focused, Mark is skilled in identifying new opportunities and connecting clients with relevant specialists or advisors. His clients benefit not only from his business acumen and technical skills but also his ability to draw on perspective and wisdom – factors that he considers critical in creating best outcome solutions and results.

Over the years his client dealings and subsequent involvement with an aged care facility in an honorary capacity, have provided Mark with a special interest in the aged-care sector. As a result he regularly participates in ongoing industry training and works closely with other partners to develop the firm's skill base in the aged-care sector.
